Online Master of Science in Applied Behavior Analysis

Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA) emphasizes the analysis and design of the environment to improve the performance of individuals as varied as children or adults with autism, parents of behaviorally challenging children, and the corporate executive attempting to maximize the productivity of their employees. Behavior analysts work in an array of settings such as classrooms, homes, mental health centers, residential clinics and schools, or organizations. The curriculum focuses on the use of behavioral assessment methodologies, empirically-driven measurement and analysis, and the selection and implementation of function-based treatment strategies that help individuals improve critical social and adaptive learning skills.

Shenandoah University's Master of Science in ABA online program consists of 33 credit hours, including 21 credit hours in coursework which includes the ABAI-verified course sequence, six (6) credit hours of electives and six (6) credit hours for a capstone project. Students arrange their own supervision with recommendations from SU faculty. During the program, faculty intermittently meet with students to review their supervision progress.
